Emergency Medical Technician Course Textbook & Course Material Information

Beginning in January 2027, we will be using the Jones & Bartlett Emergency Care and Transportation of the Sick & Injured, Advantage 13th edition textbook and associated materials for all EMT classes. The JBL Advantage product line includes a printed and/or digital textbook, a printed workbook, and an online learning management system. The LMS provides students with access to several learning materials: flashcards, soft-skill simulations, virtual patient cases, and more! Additionally, students will use the LMS during class for classwork assignments, quizzes, and exams to help prepare for New York State computer-based testing.

Textbook & Course Material Requirement: Students are responsible for obtaining the required textbook & course materials (ordering options below) prior to the course and bringing them to every class session. Textbook and LMS access are mandatory for EMT Original & Refresher students.

Student Workbook: The student workbook is strongly encouraged for study & test preparation, but is optional.

Internet Accessible Device: The course materials contain access to an online learning management system that will be used to facilitate the learning process. Students are strongly encouraged to have a laptop, tablet, or similar device that they can bring to each class to access the LMS. Additionally, an ebook and audiobook of the text are available on the LMS.
